

WELCOME TO DYPALL NETWORK NEWSLETTER

I would like to use this opportunity to present you some of the people that have been working very intensively but quite on the shadow during the last months for DYPALL Network development. As you already know we have establish an interim steering group composed by 5 organizations from different parts of Europe, that bring on board different expertise to support us in these first steps of our cooperation network. You will also find some of the results of our work in the reports that you can find in the links of this newsletter.

ECOS have been coordinating this project and we have the luck to have in our office team, Ana Morgado, as project manager supporting us with all communication, meetings preparations among other responsibilities within our project.

Milos Ristovski in currently coordinating the Center for Intercultural Dialogue (CID) – in Macedonia and he has been appointed by the organization due to his vast experience on youth policy at local and national level to join our steering group.

Iveta Balcune has been working with and in Municipalities as a senior officer for many years – she's working in the Rēzekne District Municipality and representing the NGO "For active society".

Zeynep Tugce and her colleague Necmi Turgut are from AGU Youth Factory and NGO closely linked with the Abdullah Gül Üniversitesi bringing an important dimension into our cooperation network.

Elie Pierre Kanda is based in Netherlands and his chair of ADYNE Netherlands - African Diaspora Youth Network in Europe. Working on how to bring migrants and young people with migrant background into the policy field.

This group of five organizations will have the opportunity and responsibility to dedicate efforts to create the conditions for our network to start creating its foundations. And to prepare our first Assembly of members that will take place in 2016, hopefully we will have news on early December about the several applications we have submitted to allow our members to meet and work together.

Bruno António
Executive Diretor of ECOS
